RUNWAY REPAIR AT YEAGER AIRPORT COMPLETE

Yeager Airport (CRW) has reopened after facing an emergency pavement issue on Runway 5/23 approximately 2,200 feet from the end of the runway.

The runway was closed for approximately 2 hours while West Virginia Paving worked diligently to repair the runway. “We were fortunate to have West Virginia Paving on site, and we’re thankful to them and the West Virginia Air National Guard for their help in getting the runway reopened quickly,” said Airport Director, Terry Sayre.

Passengers should contact their airline directly to rebook flights impacted by the runway repair closure.
